

Northumbrians

water safety

Open water can be dangerous. Even regular swimmers can get into difficulty when water is cold or undercurrents are strong.

Never jump in to help someone. If there's something that will float nearby, throw it to them. Alternatively, encourage them to float on their back.

Call 999 if you can. If there's no phone, shout for help.

visitnorthumberland.com

Love it like it's yours